Dr. Reeta Hashia

(Principal)

"Education is not the learning of facts but the training of mind to think. And this pandemic situation has made us to overcome this fact while keeping in mind new methodology, pedagogy and learning outcomes for children. "

The pandemic struck like a bolt of lightning, sudden and lethal. It has disrupted life all over the world. Covid-19 has had an unprecedented impact on the Education of children around the world. With the enforcement of strict social distancing measures and school closures in many countries, there has been a control in rapid widespread and few permanent changes were made to traditional modes of teaching and learning.

Learning is the acquisition of knowledge, but it doesn't have to solely occur through age-old methods. The pandemic has transformed the Centuries- old, chalk- talk teaching model to one driven by technology. In the face of a crippling pandemic, technology has emerged as a major lifesaver. Amongst many institutions schools have also shifted their base to virtual platforms to conduct classes online. The sudden shift to digital learning had a drastic effect on teachers, parents and students.

Though it seemed to be a daunting task for educators to overcome this problem. The teachers equipped themselves with continuous updating, learning and improvement. The process indeed has enabled them to impart knowledge to their students.

I approach each day thinking first and foremost about the physical, social, and emotional wellbeing of our students and staff. Many messages come and go out of my email box, but some leave an impression, these are messages from parents, thanking us for providing opportunities to their wards, to connect and talk to teachers, hear from them and attend interesting and engaging online lessons. Thank you parents for commending and appreciating our teachers for imparting lessons to students on a platform unknown to them earlier but at which they are gaining expertise! We will continue to focus on meeting learning objectives.

I feel immense joy to announce that my teachers have been able to engage students and keep an eye on their progress during this pandemic.

I am grateful to you dear parents for your support and ever willing spirit to cooperate with the management in providing the best education for your ward.

This period was an eye opener to humanize us and orient us to God, one another and Mother earth.

Lastly, I would like to say that education is a process of waking up to life and its mysteries, to solve the problems, to celebrate the mysteries of life.

I am confident that with the help of God, with the dedicated staff and with the support of all the stakeholders, we will be able to achieve the greater heights in the society.
