" Any child who is self-sufficient , who can tie his/her shoes, dress or undress himself/ herself , reflects in his/her joy and sense of achievement, the image of human dignity which is derived from a sense of independence"
They not only help the child gain independence, but they lay a neurological foundation for advanced skills involving coordination, concentration, abstract thinking and overall executive function.
In the preliminary exercises, the child learns the basic movements of all types such as pouring, folding and carrying. With this aim, we have planned out activities during the summer vacations that can assist our little students in their overall physical and mental development.
